Pretty tough game, lots of tv, music and movie questions. Back to the future and star wars fans who listened to lots of music might do better than i did. Not bad for 49 cents, but the game is super simple in its design with plenty of typos and weird problems. It was worth two quarters, but a dollar would be steep. Some of the questions were fun to answer.. Fun questions but it is not good that they changed it so there is 5000 achievements. That removes all the seriousness in the game and that is just sad to see.. Darn..... I wasn't born yet! Lol.

Quite a good mix of questions (video games, entertainment, etc) that I clearly do not know how to answer :). PFA = pay for achievements. The whole design is decent for a quizz game and fulfills its purpose. Replayability is low as soon as the same question reappear.

The single achievement unlocks instantly. Looking at how many different Trivia games with a single achievement are uploaded, they seem to mainly be targeted at achievement hunters.

No clue if the 250 questions are all self written or from an external source, but it seems like a fair amount for the price of 0,99.

Asset flip.

Fake game.

Spam achievements.. Well, I honestly was given the games because they had ONE ACHIEVEMENT. This Review is to all the Trivia Vault games, they are all the same, just different questions. (I Opened and Closed all the Trivia Games to Earn the Achievements)

Pros:

EZ 1 Achievement

Small Download

EZ 100% Game

Cons:

Open and Close to earn the Achievement...

I didn't see a point to trying to play the game when I earned the Achievement so easily..

I probably will play this game more later, but for now, since I am on a mission to 100% games my friends have bought me, I don't think the replay value on these games will be to high.. lots of bugs - many questions are 100% guess because the answers are screwed up (eg you might see a question looking for someone's name, but they appear in multiple spots - first name in one, last in another. You guess which one it is looking for...)

This is a common problem across all of their games. Glad I paid $1 for all 10 I have. Even then I still feel ripped off... and this was before the achievement spam happened.. You get what you paid for, 5K achievements at minimum price. If you're an achievement hunter looking to increase the number of achievements on your profile showcase, then I highly recommend buying this. Else don't waste your money. This is not a game, it's just a way of distributing achievements.
